OBITUARY.

Eugene Joseph Seapy was born in Blain county, Kansas, March 20, 1890, and died at Hutchinson, Kansas, on Saturday morning Oct. 14th 1916, at 2 o'clock a. m., aged 26 years 6 months and 6 days.

He was married to Miss Lucile Maxey, in Kremlin, Okla., May 19th, 1915.

He leaves to mourn his loss a loving and devoted wife, fathe and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Seapy, and many other relatives and friends at Kremlin and elsewhere.

Those present at his bedside when the angel of death came, was his wife and his father and mother and Harry Maxey, his brother-in-law.

The deceased and Harry Maxey were working in a salt plant at Hutchinson, and he took suddenly ill from an ulcer in his stomach. He was taken to a hospital there and underwent an operation from which he never recovered.

His remains were brought to Kremlin by his father and mother and taken out to their home near Kremlin and remained there until Monday morning when they were taken to the Catholic church in Enid, where impressive funeral services were held, after which his body was laid to rest in the Enid cemetery.

"In Heaven above where all is love,
There will be no more parting there."

VOTE FOR
J. B. CAMPBELL,

The Hornet man, Waukomis, Republican, for REPRESENTATIVE.

Has been a reslent of Oklahoma for 26 years, and is a Garfield County Booster. Had Legislative experience and represent the entire County.

Judge Swigert

Has Made Good.

All who were present at the recent meeting of the Republican candidates in Kremlin were interested in the talk made by Judge Swigert. In a few words he told them much about the County Court that they did not know before.

Judge Swigert's idea of economy to the taxpayers and his methods of saving the estates of the widows and orphans, is certainly appreciated by those who have to pay the bills.

He has put close to $700.00 in the county treasury from performing marriage ceremonies alone, which shows that he has attended to the county business in the right way.

We predict that he will receive the solid Republican vote of the county as well as a large vote of the Democrats and Socialists.

Senator Watrous should be returned by a large and increased majority. His support of all measures desired by the people generally and his faithful endeavors to further their interests should be so rewarded. He has always been favorable to all laws for the betterment of the moral and social conditions and has always been against the lawless, immoral or vicious elements of our society.

Kelley's soft seat Dufolds, "the best what is." L. L. Lee Furniture Co.

A large majority of the voters of Garfield county voted against the Grandfather or Illiteracy test law at the August primary. Then why vote for men for the legislature who did all they could to foist that law upon the people, and who, if elected, are pledged to support like measures? The Democrats gave us the registration law and we know you are opposed to that. Then why not vote for the Republican candidates who are opposed to it. The candidates who favor a reduction in expenses in all departments of the state. If you think taxes are too low keep on voting for the democrats. They'll get 'em up fast enough for you.

Rupture Expert Here.

Seeley, Who Has Supplied U. S. Army and Navy, Called to Enid.

F. H. Seeley of Chicago and Philadelphia, the noted truss expert, will be at the Oxford Hotel and will remain in Enid Wednesday only, Oct. 25. Mr. Seeley says: "The Spermatic Shield as supplied to the United States government will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions." Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D. C., for inspection. All charity cases without charge, or if any interested call, he will be glad to show same without charge or fit them if desired. Business demands prevent stopping at any other place in this section.

P. S.—Every statement in this advertisement has been verified before the Federal and State Courts.—F. H. Seeley.

I shall try to write a few lines to you once more. We are at present here in Dallas, Oregon, visiting with Mr. A. Voth and family, formerly of Kremlin.

This country has improved but very little in the seven years that have elapsee since I was here for several months.

We are intending to be home again before the last of this month

On the way over here we have stopped to visit for several weeks at Reedley, Calif., where we had occasion to help in the raisin-grape harvest. We stopped for sight-seeing purposes at Denver, Colorado Springs, Manitou and Glenwood Springs, Colo., Salt Lake City, Utah, Los Angeles, San Diego, Pasadena, Long Beach, San Francisco, Sacramento, Shasta Springs and other places in California; and in Medford, Salem and Independence, Ore. Such a trip is very well worth the time and money spent.

This town, Dallas, is in the heart of a large lumbering and prune growing and drying district.

Soon we will be home again, and till then remain yours truly.

MR. AND MRS. J. A. VOTH.

THE KREMLIN JOURNAL

J. A. Maxey, Editor and Owner.

KREMLIN : : OKLA.

A former herdsman relates a thrilling personal experience connected with stampedes of cattle. He was taking a herd of 400 steers to Leadville, and had camped for the night on Bear river, near its junction with the Little Snake. At midnight, when he went on guard, all was quiet, but in an hour or so, for some unexplained reason, the cattle were up and off like a flash; something had stampeded them.

He was riding an old blue-colored, line-backed California broncho. Just the beast for the work. He had often ridden him a hundred miles a day. The night was dark and cloudy, and he had to rely on the animal's surefootedness as he strove to stay on the flanks of the steers and turn them until their scree should cease.

It was a wild race. Four or five times the broncho gave tremendous jumps, but landed right and went on in good shape. In the course of an hour or so the man had the beevies quelled.

When daylight came, being curious to learn what obstacles had occasioned those tremendous jumps of the broncho, the man set forth to look over the ground. Leaving the bottom land, the steers had ascended a gentle acclivity, and on the plateau at the top he had kept circling them.

The plateau was intersected by a canyon about four miles long and from 1,500 to 2,000 deep. Its walls inclined toward each other at the top, and the distance across was 15 or 20 feet.

During the chase the broncho had jumped that frightful chasm four times! His hoof-marks were plainly visible; and down in the debris, hundreds of feet below, were a dozen mangled steers that had been crowded off.

As They Got Going.

Hilda Jensen rushed up to Officer Cohen. "Officer, that man is following me!"

"Faith, then I'll folley th' man an' see why he's folleyin' ye!" spoke Officer Cohen, who had been member of the force for some time.

A crowd of small boys, seeing a policeman following a man, started in pursuit and followed the policeman.

At that a crowd of men, seeing a crowd of boys, followed the crowd of boys.

The rest of the city, observing all these people following one another, took the procession for a parade and soon had the sidewalks roped off and themselves lined in dense banks behind the rope to enjoy the spectacle.

The board of education hearing of a parade, declared a holiday and thousands of children ran trooping out of the schools. Catching the infection, banks closed and general jubilation reigned.

When Officer Cohen caught up to the strange follower of Hilda Jensen, it developed that he had only been endeavoring to return her handkerchief, which she had dropped, but by that time it had once again been demonstrated that all an idea needs in this dear old country of ours is a good start—Puck.

Discovered!

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "do you favor votes for women?"

"Yes, indeed."

"And I know why. You think that if I could vote maybe I'd quit talking about it, and I think you're just as mean as you can be!"

Word in Season.

"I heard Mr. Subbubs speaking most beautifully of his wife to another lady on the train just now. Rather unusual in a man these days." "Not under the circumstances. That was a new cook he was escorting out." —Rehaboth Sunday Herald.

FINDS BRITISH TRENCHES LAST WORD IN SKILL

Observer Says They Are Devoid of Traps for Drawing Enemy's Fire.

THINKS THE FOE UNNERVED

Condition of German Prisoners Said to Indicate That the Strain Is Tellingly on the Whole Army—Kindness Surprises Captives.

London.—Some new points of view are presented in the course of an article from an authoritative British source. Just what a man will see and what he is likely to feel if he visits the allied front line near the Somme at the point where the British army has just made one of its many steps forward are the writer's theme. After describing the general character of the country he recounts his progress through the communication trenches.

Walking with your head two feet under cover along a neat crack in the earth with a sharp corner every few yards, finally you turn the last corner into the actual firing trench. It is a trench to gladden the connoisseur's heart. How the men must have worked whenever they were not fighting—and is digging less dear than fighting to the soul of youth?—in order to model this perfect line of defense and offense, its shapely firing step and clean-cut verticle walls and massively squared transverse.

There is no gapping V-shaped ditch to collect the enemy's trench mortars and invite his wandering whizzbangs in, and the men know it. You walk along the trench and see just pride as well as confidence in their faces.

It is noon now, and some of them are blowing on hot tea to cool it, or eating out of their dixies hot stew of meat, potatoes and peas. It has not always been thus in the English firing trench. The English only learned in each of their wars by degrees, but now they have learned it. The day is fine, and other men are asleep, basking like cats in a state of beatitude on little sunny shelves and bunks cunningly sculptured out of the trenches' firm clay walls.

One little knot of men off duty are bending over a comic paper at a corner. The wary old trench dweller always likes a corner, because he can jump round it at the shortest notice and put a solid wall of earth between himself and anything noxious that drops in. On the other side another group cheerfully reopens that undying theme of debate the British soldiers—the merits and demerits of the salient at Ypres.

"How long was you at Wipers?"
"Four months."
"Well, I was there five months; so what right have you to speak?"

A general laugh greets this method of proof and someone else cuts in.

Sentries Watch Germans.

You meet officers anxious about nothing except to know what there is in the last English papers. Sentries on duty, with all the crowns of their grass-green steel helmets dipped cunningly down to the parapet's level, report that nothing is stirring over the way. These helmets used to be ugly and not highly protective. They looked like the barber's basin that Don Quixote took to be the helmet of Mambrina. The new make of helmet is prettier, and also more virtuous. It covers more of the neck, though not so much as the blue steel skull caps of the French, with their turned-down brims, and its lines are artistic. Worn at the proper angle, it makes the comely young sentry look rather like Donatello's David at Florence.

With stooping heads, the sentries report "nothing doing." That means nothing visible, nothing audible.

Peering over the parapet for a moment you see only a wilderness of bare earth, pitted thickly with conical holes from three to eight feet deep. Four hundred feet away is the skeleton of a dead village. No sign of life is to be seen there except perhaps one of the larks which sing cheerfully through cannonades that would make the pheasants in faraway Sussex nervous, or else a big hawk slowly quartering around and sending the larks into a retirement as modest as that of German air men. And yet you know that that waste is infested; that you need only to raise your head a foot higher to bring a bullet dipping itself with a quiet flick into the loose earth behind you; that if you crawled out on your stomach and peeped over the edge of each shell hole you reached you would come at last to one in which men in wide-skirted gray tunics with narrow bands round their caps were crouching, some of them nursing their one good friend, a machine gun, some of them digging hard to connect hole with hole till a row of fortuitous dots is turned into a line; some of them resting tucked into little cavities scooped in the earth or near the side wall of a quarry, and staring apprehensively up at bomb-laden British biplanes wheeling about in the sky overhead as the larks in the grass look up at a hawk.

Kindness Surprises Captives.

You know all this, because on the way up this morning you talked with a number of Prussian and Saxon prisoners in one of the cages at the little camps where the latest captives rest for some days out of range of their friends' heavy guns till they can be sent by rail to the base or to England. Three days ago they came down broken-hearted to the cage, their faces lined and drawn with mental overstrain, some of them still mechanically making depreciatory gestures of surrender and entreaty. As they marched today all the lines were smoothed out. They had been fed and had slept for whole nights, and had found that the "murderers" described to them by their own sergeants inflicted nothing but offers of cigarettes. So they began to expand in the unexpected sunshine of good treatment and they told what life had been like in the shellholes, its good points and its bad. The food, it had been good, but sometimes it did not come because the British guns would draw a kind of fence of falling shrapnel across a piece of country, a sort of showerbath of bullets dropping along the line, so nobody could cross the line without being hurt. Still the bread and meat and chocolate, when they did come, were good and the water was sometimes mineral water in bottles. The trouble was that the British guns would not cease firing and the British aeroplanes would not go away, nor the German ones come out of their sheds.

Sometimes the men in the shellhole would see British troops in the open within rifle range, but would not dare shoot lest British airmen should see where they were and send word to a British gun and bring down a high explosive shell on the old shellhole to bury them all alive by a second rearrangement of the earth. You perceive this apprehension just because you twice today have seen the end of a stiff black-booted leg protruding out of the wall of an old shellhole.

Other questions about their life at the front the prisoners answered as freely. Had they talked politics? Yes, there were any number of Social Democrats in the army and every one thought great changes would come when the war was over, but not now. Were there any desertions? No. Many men would be glad to be prisoners, but would not desert. Many men would surrender if the German officers were not so quick to shoot men who put up their hands, and if all the German soldiers knew that the allies did not kill prisoners nor have them scalped by savages.

Strain on German Nerves.

Those, then, are the kind of men, and that is the kind of life and state of mind which exist beyond the 300 intervening yards of blank ground. On some early day, perhaps, an incessant sequence of separate shell bursts among and around them at intervals will change in an instant into an outburst of furious, continuous barking like suddenly angered dogs, or that of a great many suddenly angered dogs. The earth of their trench and in front of it and behind it will begin to dance up in fountains, like the surface of a puddle during a very heavy rain, only that all the earth fountains are 20 feet high. Perhaps the Germans will just be able to see through a hole in the smoke that the British parapet, where not a sign of human habitation had been seen before, bristles with men standing up at full height and then moving forward. In the next 20 minutes many capricious fates will befall individuals on both sides, but underlying this seeming confusion in the destinies of atoms-causes will still be having their natural effects. The average German soldier, having endured defeat already, will fight less well than he did. His nerves having suffered the strain of those new experiences in the shellholes will hold out less long than they used to. His mind having learned that surrender into the hands of Englishmen does not mean death or ill usage, but merely release from danger and exhaustion, he will be less averse to surrender than he was.

The German army naturally scored last year by being quicker than the allies to see that success in trench warfare was to the side with the most munitions. It made competition in munition making and it has been distanced in that competition, and now the wide advancing line of English infantry will enter the German trench, a trench shattered out of shape as no trench ever has been shattered. Even at Verdun causes will have their effects, though sometimes it may not seem like it. However long the war may yet last it has begun to have the character of a winding up. Even a minor English attack on the short length of trench near the Somme begins to be recognizable now as one of the many forms that have to be gone through one after another in liquidating a business that is clearly bankrupt.

KAISER SWEATS AT HARVEST

Cologne Volkszeitung Tells How the Emperor Worked in Shirtsleeves With His Peasant Folk.

Amsterdam.—The story of the kaiser working in the harvest fields is told by the Cologne Volkszeitung as follows:

"Why do the people run? Why do they rush to the fields? To see the kaiser. It is between 5 and 7 in the evening. The laborers are busy loading their carts with sheaves. Suddenly all hands are idle; all caps are doffed; everybody stands agast.

"The kaiser is coming. The 'all highest' is already on the spot! He takes off his coat! In his shirtsleeves the head of the German empire works in the field! He lends a hand to secure for himself God's golden blessing. As the kaiser does, so do the high officials and officers. And look! Do you not see our imperial chancellor working? It is true! It is he.

"With surprise the spectators behold the kaiser wiping the sweat from his brow with his sleeve. We see him sitting among the laborers drinking water from a common jug. Like a father he talks to the children. He asks them to run across the stubblefield and, laughing heartily at the enjoyment of the children, gives them little presents."

The paper pulp shortage in foreign countries is causing many newspapers to suspend publication.

Talk Into Your Telephone

SOMETIMES ago, while a business man was telephoning, a friend in his office heard him say to the person at the other end of the wire: "I don't hear you clearly. Are your lips close to the transmitter? Ah! That is much better. I hear you perfectly now."

When the telephone talk ended he turned to his friend and said: "Some people forget that they can't get the best results when telephoning unless they speak DIRECTLY INTO the transmitter."

Did it ever occur to you that you might not be using your telephone the right way? Do you speak sideways, speak above, speak below, speak six inches away from the mouthpiece of your telephone, or do you speak directly into the transmitter?

Work for Unemployed Men.

In Town Planning, James F. McCradden tells how a number of unemployed men were put to work last winter cleaning out private alleys, vacant lots and mosquito-breeding places in fashion similar to that used in Chicago during the recent period of industrial depression. The aim was to fix payment on such a basis that a man would continue in the work only as long as he was unable to find other employment.

Every large community insanitary conditions exist on a considerable amount of property belonging to the city itself which is unimproved and upon land the owners of which are inaccessible or the title of which is in dispute. Thousands of cubic yards of refuse and filth were gathered and collected from vacant lots throughout the city. In many cases the lots, after being cleaned, were turned into neighborhood recreation centers, tennis courts and other places of amusement.

THINGS TO REMEMBER IN CONSTRUCTION OF SILO

The walls must be airtight.
The walls must be smooth inside.

The best type of silo is round.
The roof should be water-proof.

The materials out of which the silo is built should be strong enough to withstand great pressure.

The cost should be from $2 to $5 per ton capacity if the total capacity is to exceed 100 tons.

A silo should be placed as near as possible to the place where the silage is to be fed.

One hundred tons of silage will feed 25 head of stock for 200 days.

A silo 14 feet in diameter and 35 feet high will hold 100 tons of silage.

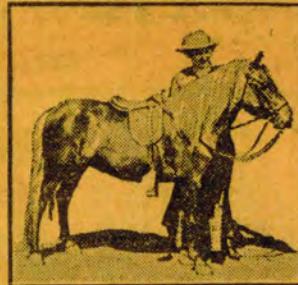

Any kind of good silo is a valuable piece of property on the farm where live stock is to be fed.

bring the best prices, consequently no effort should be made to increase the size of the breed; the animals should not be too tenderly cared for, should not be housed too tight or fed very heartily. Only a trifling amount of grain is favored for them, and shredded fodder is advised.

Shetland mares are remarkably prolific, are bred regularly every year. The colts are naturally hardy, the ponies are seldom sickly. They are ready for any ordinary work at two and a half years.

C. A. Waugh, writing in Country Life, says: "Mature Shetlands sell all the way from $75 upward, with the bulk of the animals going at $125. At the latter figure there is a clear profit of $90 in the transaction for the breeder. Besides, if he produces his own feed, he has received full market value for it, and at the same time has fed it out at a cost much less than that of delivering to the local market. In addition the feed has produced the same proportionate amount of manure that it would produce were it fed to any other animal on the farm."

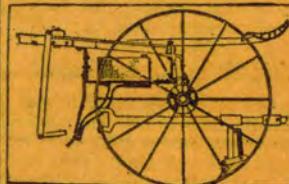

In winter only a rough shelter is needed for the sturdy creature. The Shetland has a heavier coat of hair than any other domesticated animal; at least ten months out of the twelve he can run out, and "the stormiest weather will find him with his back to the storm, digging in the snow." He practically takes care of himself.

In looking over the list of members of the American Shetland Pony club it is of interest to observe how many women are enrolled, and that a number of the pony farms represented are owned and managed by women.

attention should combine to make them on your farm. Two Texas men have recently patented the bug-swatting attachment for cultivators shown here. A pump connects between the reservoir and the wheel, so that the turning of the wheels as the cultivator is drawn through the field pumps the liquid or powder onto the plants below to destroy bugs.—Farming Business.

TREATING WOUNDS OF STOCK

Disinfectant of Some Kind Should Be Handy in Every Barn—Potassium Permanganate Is Good.

There should be in every barn a quantity of disinfectant that may be readily mixed with water and used in the cases of wounds sustained by any of the stock. Potassium permanganate is excellent, and can be purchased at any drug store in powder form and used in water in amounts such as will color the water a light red. It has the advantage over many antiseptics of not irritating a wound. But any of the commercial antiseptics will keep a wound free from infection if used early, and the formation of large running sores will thus be prevented.

A scratch or wound small as it may be at first may quickly become infected and then it will not heal until the infection has been freed from the germs that are causing the trouble. But if treatment is begun at once the trouble can usually be prevented by bathing two or three times a day with an antiseptic solution which will keep the wound clean so that it will rapidly heal.

The best home treatment of old sores is to bathe them two or three times a day with hydrogen peroxide and syringe them out with warm water followed by a small quantity of the same antiseptic.

Watch for Troubles.

Watch vegetables and flowers closely for indications of insect and disease troubles.

Unsightly and Injurious.

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 178 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely.

It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

FOR PUBLIC SAFETY

NATION HAS BEEN AWAKENED
TO GREAT NEED.

Prevention of Industrial Accidents and Casualties in Conflagrations is the Object of Association of National Scope.

Is the bitterness of a dozen years ago passing out of industry? Are employers becoming more humane? Is the public conscience awakening to the sin of omission as well as commission? Is the human element receiving recognition as the most precious asset of our nation?

"Our state pays the salaries of more than a hundred game and fish wardens to protect the beasts of the fields and the fowls of the air and the fishes of our streams. What does it contribute toward the protection of the workers in the industries?" asked a labor organizer in a public meeting.

As the question today and the answer will come from the national government at Washington, from every state capital, from almost every city hall, from every church and school, and, probably the truest barometer of all, from thousands of our largest employers, and from the best-posted industrial leaders.

Nor does the movement stop with the industrial accident. Twin cause of sorrow and misery of industrial accident, fire takes toll in mine explosion and conflagration, but more often in the home. In Chicago last year 300 persons were seriously injured by burns or scalds. One-half of this number died, a majority of whom were little children. An association of national scope has taken this matter in hand and is accomplishing wonderful results.

Railroads and accidents were almost synonymous terms a dozen years ago. Last year the managers of 312 railroads reported to the government that not one passenger lost his life through collision or wreck. Industrial corporations reported a reduction from 37 to 70 per cent in number of accidents and an even larger percentage in reduction of fatal accidents.

Last year a dozen governors of middle western states made proclamation of Fire Prevention day—usually setting the date on October 9—the anniversary of the date of the famous O'Leary bovine incident at Chicago. Accident Prevention day was proclaimed in a hundred cities and in a thousand industries. This year two great agencies, the National Fire Protection association and the National Safety council, have joined forces, and Fire Prevention day will hereafter be known as Fire and Accident Prevention day, being inaugurated by national proclamation by President Wilson.

More than a score of governors have indicated their intention of joining in the movement through proclamations. Hundreds of chambers of commerce will take part and two thousand industries will set aside some portion of their activity toward making the day a success.

The spirit of co-operation in accident and fire prevention now pervades every department of public and private activity. The national government, through the department of labor and the bureau of mines, is accomplishing a splendid work, and the hundreds of thousands of dollars expended in educational work is probably the best known and appreciated of all our governmental functions. Every state in the Union has made a start, and in a score or more the work is well under way. A hundred or more municipalities have well-developed departments of public safety, while street traffic regulations, clean-up campaigns and similar public responsibilities are now cheerfully accepted by even the smaller cities and villages.

VOTE FOR

George M. Scifres
for Court Clerk.

He is a tax-payer and a man of family. He will appreciate your support.

C. C. Childers, Democratic Nominee for State Senator.

I wish to submit to the voters of Garfield county for your careful consideration my reasons why I think you should elect me to represent you as your State Senator.

During my term of office in the Legislature I made good every promise I made you. Senator Watrous and myself have an official record, and I consider that record as public property and the people are entitled to know and have a right to know and should know what it is and on our record we should stand and be judged.

In order that the people could be advised, I did invite Senator Watrous to go with me before the people in a joint discussion, but for the reason best known to himself, he refused; so it now becomes necessary for me to give you my record and I have selected from the journals a few of the most important subjects which I consider are of vital importance to you as a citizen and a tax payer. Senator Watrous and I each agree that the selection of a State Senator is a business proposition and not a matter of politics.

During my time as representative, I introduced and passed the following bills:

To abolish the Superior Court of Garfield county.

To reduce the salary of County Assessor from $6,00.00 per year to $2,150.00 and assess real estate once in two years.

Electrocution for death penalty instead of hanging.

To require railroads to furnish hospital service in Oklahoma for their employees.

Nine hours for women who toil at public work.

To require the State to pay one-half the value of stock when killed by the order of the State Veterinaries.

Secured appropriations to erect buildings for the Feeble Minded Institute located in our county.

Place Phillips University, located in Enid, on par and same rating of graduates of any state school.

Gave the farmer of Garfield county and State of Oklahoma the right to organize a mutual insurance company.

These measures is what I had enacted into law during my term of four years in office.—Adv.

Wild Horse Items.

George Peterson is visiting his sister, Mrs. Will Teska.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Moffit spent Sunday with Bert Gray's.

Fritz Goll went to Pond Creek Thursday.

Mrs. Less Goddard left Sunday to visit her brothers and sisters, near Mountain View and Lawton. Mrs. Goddard expects to be gone about two weeks.

Miss Bertha Ward is visiting her aunt, Mrs. B. Moffitt.

Mrs. R. O. Calvert and two small children left Sunday evening for Denver, Colo., to visit her sister and other relatives, and later on will visit other relatives in California. She does not expect to return home until next spring.

Senator Watrous should be returned by a large and increased majority. His support of all measures desired by the people generally and his faithful endeavors to further their interests should be so rewarded. He has always been favorable to all laws for the betterment of the moral and social conditions and has always been against the lawless, immoral and vicious elements of our society.

What the Doctor Knows

KIDNEYS MUST BE RIGHT TO INSURE HEALTH.

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's Disease, which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in one year, in the State of New York alone. Therefore, it is particularly necessary to pay more attention to the health of these important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

When your kidneys require attention, get Swamp-Root at once from any pharmacy. It is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c and $1.00.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

SHOUSE LOYAL TO THE HORSE

Representative Shouse of Kansas represents a district where there is an automobile to every six persons, yet he is loyal to the horse, for he used to live in Kentucky, where he was editor of the Farmer and Breeder.

"In Kansas we have the heavy draft horse at its best," said Mr. Shouse. "He belongs to the farm and does his work well. When we want to go anywhere we use an automobile, but I know what the thoroughbred means to the country at large, and particularly to communities in which horse breeding is an economic asset.

"In a recent tour through my district I was forcibly reminded of a movement which had its inception in Kentucky in 1898, when a breeders' organization was formed to purchase all undesirable or barren thoroughbred mares and resell them without name or pedigree. When I saw the sorry nondescripts which were being picked up I couldn't help thinking how much superior these thoroughbred outcasts were to the riffraff which had neither breeding nor individuality to commend them. The European war has been a great benefit to the United States, as it has taken a lot of worthless breeding material.

"What we need now is a little intelligence and initiative to remedy the mistakes of former generations. Kentucky is essentially a horse-breeding state, and we naturally look for progress there, but in the same class may be placed Tennessee, Missouri, Montana, New York, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia, and it is from them we must look for the greatest development."

CHIEF OF CONDUCTORS

Austin Garretson, president of the Order of Railroad Conductors, is credited by many with being the "brains" of the recent coup by which the railroad brotherhoods forced Congress to pass an eight-hour basic day bill in order to avoid a paralyzing strike.

Garretson is also a big man physically, being six feet and two inches in stature. Men who know him intimately say that he is an accurate thinker, a skilled annologist, a philosopher, a materialist and a sentimental. He likes to give a poetic touch to his speeches and his writings and, although he is not a religious man, reads the Bible at his home, in his office and often on his travels.

The Bible, he says, covers the whole range of human experiences and is the safest of all guides, regardless of circumstances or centuries. He was a conductor for many years on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, and for some time ran passenger trains in Mexico. The conductors, respecting his earnestness and ability, jumped him over the heads of other officers in their brotherhood and elected him first vice president, that he might become the chief of their order if Edgar E. Clark should die, resign or engage in some other business. When Mr. Clarke became a member of the interstate commerce commission Mr. Garretson, by the letter of the program, was chosen to be his successor.
